This proclamation was a direct and explicit protest on the part of President firstock against the assumption by Congress of a right to confer on him the power to grant pardons and amusciles, and an explicit assertion of his right, in the absence of any act of Congress, to grant either, under the Constitution.

It is said that there is an essential difference of the conference of the conf It is said that there is an essential difference between a pardon and an amnesty, for which the only reference made is to Bouvier's Law Dictionary, which it is not very customary to quote as an authority. The paragraphs quoted from Amnesty and pardon are very differ ent. The former is an act of the sovereign power, the object of which is to efface and to cause to be forgotten, a time or misdemeaner; the latter is a the individual on whom it is bestows from the punishment the law inflicts for the crime he has committed. 7 Pete a). Amnesty is the abolition and for getfulness of the offence; pardon is for giveness. A pardon is given to one who is certainly guilty or has been convicted; amuesty to those who may have been

All of the previous paragraph which omes from the decision of the Supreme Court of the United States in 7 Peters we have printed in Italics. The Cour did not, in that case, discuss the difference between a pardon and an amnesty There was no such question in the case For all not in italics, Bouvies gives no

He continues to say, without citing any authority : "Their effects are also different. That f pardon is the remission of the whole r a part of the punishment awarded by he law; the conviction remaining unaffected when only a parital pardon is grauted: an amnesty, on the contrary, has the effect of destroying the criminal t, so that it is as if it had not been committed, as far as the further interests | put it under Zentmayer's powerful miare concerned."

There is no such distinction. A pardon, that on that space covering the one six are concerned." There is no such distinction. A pardon, as we have heretofore shown in the Arread and the part of a square inch, seven thousand eight hundred and fifty letters have been photographed, each one five thousand the part of a square inch long, "Their application also differs. Pardon is always given to individuals, and properly only after judgment or conviction: amnesty may be granted either before judgment or afterwards." [There is no such distinction:] "and it is in general given to whole classes of criminals or supposed criminals, for the purnals or supposed criminals, for the pur-In ancient times there stood in 1 one of restoring tranquility in the State." Fhat is really the whole difference. An amuesty is simply the pardon of a class or number of people, and not of an from heaven. The second was of bronze, dividual or individuals by name.

Under the head of Pardon, he says:
"Pardons are general or special. The orner are express, when an act of the egislature is passed, expressly directing at offences of a certain class shall be at offences of a certain class shall be edividual or tudividuals by name. Under the head of Partion, he says :

egislature is passed, expressly directing hat offences of a certain class shall be ardoned, as in the case of an act of amnesty. . . . Special pardons are those which are granted by the pardoning ower for particular cases."

That is so far true, that an act or roclamation of amnesty is a general ardon. And under the Constitution, the resident possesses all the panioning ower: and those whom he can pardon by name, he can pardon by general selamation, without naming them. A room seamstress in New York, who makes pantaloons for eight cents a pair, was kicked out of doors by her bruta employer, because she refused to take twenty-five cents for four pairs.

IN A SPEECH recently delivered at a gathering of negroes and Governmen agents near Norfolk, Va., a loyal Ethi opian expressed the views of himselfand his fellow-blacks somewhat freely on the subject of "squatter-sovereignty." A white listener to his very loyal harangue furnishes this report:

He said: "The Indians were driven off these by the whites, and that they (the blacks) would now take them from the whites." "We have suffered enough," he exclaimed; "now let the white man suffer. The days when the Breadway, N. Y.

white man could say, 'Come here, John, and all without and within is dismai, and black my boots," are past. The times favor the most flattering times have changed, and now the time has its secret sorrows which the world knows not, and oftentimes we call a man could say, at our solucitation, have bested will come, when I can say to the white will knows not, and oftentimes we call a man could when he is only and.
